Office for Communications (OfCom)

Tasks

Electronic Communication

OfCom is the regulatory, supervisory and administrative authority.
As an independent regulatory authority, it promotes and monitors effective competition on the telecommunications markets. To this end, we conduct market analyses, order special regulation measures and monitor compliance with them.
As an administrative authority, the AK manages numbering resources and radio frequencies.
As a conciliation body, the AK supports consumers and companies in settling disputes quickly and cost-effectively. In doing so, the office acts neutrally and independently.

Radio Frequencies

OfCom is responsible for frequency planning, national and international frequency coordination and frequency allocation. The AK is represented in all technical working groups of the International Telecommunication Union, the Conference of European Administrations and the European Union as a member or observer.

Signature and Trust Services

OfCom is the accreditation and supervisory body and manages and publishes information on certification services in Liechtenstein.

Audiovisual Media

OfCom is responsible for the independent handling of the business assigned to the government in accordance with art. 86 para. 1 letters a to e of the Media Act.

Media Commission

OfCom acts as the office for the Media Commission

Postal

OfCom is the regulatory, supervisory and administrative authority.

Space

OfCom is the regulatory, supervisory and administrative authority.
